Englisch Medium Instruction - EMI

Professional development and training for teaching in English with an international student body

Quality Assurance in English-Taught Degree Programs

Assessment at a glance:

- EMI specific criteria
- Classroom observation
- Triangulated feedback based on student evaluation, teacher self-assessment and detailed expert analysis

The EMI Team has certified five English-taught degree programs using a systematic certification procedure, that evaluates the linguistic and communicative quality of teaching in English.

Tailored Training

Pursue more individualized learning goals via classroom observations and/or one-on-one training. Institute-/team-specific workshops are available upon request.

Workshops

Participant-centered workshops to foster didactic strategies and language use for different teaching contexts in English.

Semester Course

A weekly course covering didactic and linguistic aspects of teaching in English with a multilingual, multicultural student body. The course culminates with participant mock lessons and detailed feedback.

E-learning Resources

Self-paced, compact modules which allow teachers to gain insights into communicative teaching strategies and reflect on their use of language in the international classroom (see picture on the right).

These measures are all free of charge for members of the University of Freiburg thanks to funding from the 'QualityPact for Teaching' (01PL11007).
